

ASTC

The American Society of Trial Consultants is a professional society of trial consultants and researchers interested in the growing field of social science litigation research and consulting.

ASTC members come from a wide variety of professional backgrounds such as: communication, psychology, sociology, theater, linguistics, political science and law. As trial consultants working with attorneys, and as researchers and educators in academic settings, ASTC members share an interest in understanding the dynamics of the trial process, the decision making processes of juries and judges, and all methods of alternate dispute resolution. Our nationwide membership includes long established firms and individuals who have pioneered the field of trial consulting and research since the 1970's, as well as professionals who are exploring the field for the first time.

Since its founding in 1982, ASTC has been instrumental in developing the field of trial consulting by providing:

- Forums for sharing insights and research from academia and the courtroom.
- Opportunities to develop the professional standards, practice guidelines, and ethical principles critical to the growth of our field.
- Training programs and workshops to refine the application of social science research techniques to trial practice.
- Communication to the legal community and the general public about the use of trial consultants.
- Resources about the practice and ethics of trial consulting services. Attorneys and media representatives are encouraged to contact ASTC.

Benefits of Membership

- The Annual Conference... each year provides training programs and seminars in which members share experiences, discuss research and explore developments in the field. It is a unique opportunity to meet colleagues and build professional relationships. Members receive reduced rates on conference fees.
- The Jury Expert... is an ASTC publication distributed to litigators, and is available to our membership online. There are six issues each year.
- Court Call... is an online publication for members only with up-to-date information on ASTC, its membership, developments in the field, and research for trial consultants. All members receive access to Court Call.
- A Depository... of papers, motions and briefs relevant to the work of trial consultants and social science researchers is available. Complimentary uploads and downloads will be available online.
- Members Only Website... allows access to up-to-date information on membership and events. In addition, you can post job announcements and internships, access the depository and register for annual conferences.
- ASTCNet... an interactive listserv tool whereby members communicate on a variety of professional topics.
- The ASTC Printed and Online Directory... lists members' contact information alphabetically, and lists their names geographically and by firm. In addition to contact information, members' consulting, teaching and research services are listed.
- Corporate Discounts... only to members on travel as well as other products and services.
- Professional Code... All members of ASTC subscribe to the organization's Professional Code.
